Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec., 5, 1880. MR. EDITOR: The members of congress are coming, coming. Washington will be in the midst of a new life tomorrow. The members, their families, and all the office seekers who can come will be here this week. The change in the city is wonderful. Before, it has been dull and quiet as an odd Sunday. Now it will be as fresh and gay here as money and fashionable dress, and beautiful faces can make it. But the highest tide of gayety will not come until after the holidays. Then thousands of romance-loving people, who have plenty of money, will come to spend the winter at the national capitol. This winter the attractions will be unusual. The inauguration will be on the bills for March. That event will draw a very large crowd. As for legislation, the present session promises to be a dull affair. This session will not likely undertake to do any heavy work, such as legislating on leading questions as the tariff, finance, etc. It is their duty to pass appropriation bills for the next fiscal year and this they will no doubt do without making so many wry faces as they did last year. Then there is a great deal of scrap wo k to be done, legislating on private matters and matters of purely local interest, so that it will push the democracy to get their house in order in time to vacate on the 4th of warch. No doubt the democrats wish the time was longer. It is very hard for them to go out so; under such a record. If they only had one more session added to this, they would do the country so much good by their benificent deportment. How they tremble as they feel the boot-toe of public opinion coming —coming. It will be found that this death-bed repentence will crop out in the public acts of the democracy this winter. They will not say a word this year about wiping out anything. They will not defy the prisident either. But it is too late to build a record now. What can oldman democracy do towards making a redeeming record, now that he tremblingly walks about the capitol, its marble slabs being strewn with his last falling locks while the very time-piece on the wall points to the last hour with an unrelenting hand. We can hope for no good results from the corpse of this old party of long years and great crimes. Like the villain in a stage play he has been kicked during each act, a d yet kept on the stage to par troy the villainuous instincts to be found in politics and also that the audience might have something to despise. Let us hope that when the curtain drops on the democracy next arch, it will drop for ver on this old man of dead ideas states-rights and the like. Give us a more respectable villain for the future stage of American politics. We deserve a release from the old issues, so long nursed in the bosom of the democracy. The democrats are, as a rule, as honest men as other partiazns but they undoubtedly have a muster courage enough to come out and join the army of progress. They are coming. And so is free speech. Soon the ambuscades of the bulldozer will fall into decay and the genius of progress will creep from her hiding place in the south. When the funeral bells toll over the democracy next warch, let us hope the "solid" business will be a corpse at the same funeral. And when the echoes of those bells go on reverberating over the south, may they find a fresh made mound covering every bulldozer in the land. By the way you have seen that Ben Hill is on the political mourners' bench-wants a release from the depravity of the age-wants 24 College Place, Maria , New York. all the good men of both parties to join hands and get up a new outfit and call it a national union party. No one heard that he was so charitably disposed until he saw the fragments of his own party strewn at his feet. The size of his mouth and the capacity of his lungs makes him a firstclass mourner. He is like a bawling calf which one is trying to pull from the teat The laws of trade, legal forms, how to transact of his mother by means of a vigorous tail business, valuable tables, social etiquette, Parlamentary usage, how to conduct public business: in fact it is a complete time of the surface good tail grip-on the democracy, and jerks them back with such force that the aforesaid teats slip from their lips with a kind of double-distilled smack, we can

A boom is being organized with considerable foundation, in favor of making ex Representative Rainey, of South Carolina, the clerk of the next house of representatives. t will be remembered that at the close of the 45th congress when the enrolling committee were in a bad, way to say the least, r. Rainey did the work of four men without food or sleep, for twen y-four hours, and saved the country the xpense and disadvantage of an extra session of congress. Mr. Rainey is the same man for whom Judge Houk voted to be clerk last session and it was about this vote that . r Williams made a small sized racket It is hoped that Mr. Rainey will be elected. He has just claims on the place. The republican party is going to show to the world that it recognizes merit alone and the color of a man s skin is to be no barrier to his advancement. . r. Williams can put this in his note book if readily understand why this big calf

he chooses. Sam Ivens of Athens is a candidate for postmaster of the house to fill out the unexpired term of James M. Stewart deceased. Sam is a capital fellew and It is Located in the Exact Business would get a great many to a decide should not the democratic caucus decide against him. Walter P. Brownlow is a candidate for postmaster of the house under the next administration. He is pushing his canvass lively and will get a good vote.

I. C. Cottrell, druggist, of Marine City, Michigan, was entirely cured of Consumption by the use of Allen's Lung Balsam, since which time he sells large quantities of it. Under recent date he writes us: "I am again entirely out of Allen's Lung Balsam. Send half a gross as soon as you can, I can not keep store without it. It cures the consumptive patients after the doctors fail to help them."

MOTHERS, READ.

OAKLAND STA, Ky., April 24.
GENTLEMEN—The demand for Allen's Lung Balsam is increasing constantly. The ladies think there is no medicine equal to it for Croup think there is no might and Whooping Cough.
C. S. MARTIN, Druggist.

Mothers will find it a safe and sure remedy to give their children when afflicted with Croup. It is harmless to the most delicate child. It contains no Opium in any form.

Caution.—Cali for Allen's Lung Balsam, and shun the use of all remedies without merit and an established reputation.
